District preparing for bond issue

Bay school board planning architect fee negotiations

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District Board plans to begin negotiations on architect's fees for a long-range building program next week.

The board agreed at a special meeting Monday to authorize a team consisting of Board President Betty Diboll, elected Board Member L.D. Carter, Superintendent of Education Roger Oge and Board Attorney Lucien Gex to negotiate fees with Fred Wagner, the architect the board chose for the project on a 4-1 vote.

Carter was the board member who voted against firing Wagner.

Negotiations are not expected to begin until at least Feb. 12 because the attorney and superintendent have scheduling conflicts.

Information regarding when Wagner would be available could not be obtained Monday because the architect was at a meeting of the Hancock County School Board.

Gex said most architects for a project financed through a bond issue usually agree on two fees.

One is a fixed rate charged for the preliminary plans drawn in preparation for the bond issue itself. That fee is charged if the bond issue fails to pass and would have to come from the district's budget.

The second fee is a percentage of the final project cost and is the fee charged if the bond issue passes and the project is actually constructed, Gex added.

The bond issue usually includes that amount.

The current estimate offered by Oge is $3.2 million to $3.6 million, without contingency funds or architect's fees.

That estimate is very preliminary, Oge said, and includes expansions at all four schools in the district.

On Monday, Oge presented the public with drawings and proposals regarding three of the schools.

Bay Senior High School, which under the building program proposal would become a high school-junior high complex for grades 7-12, was discussed briefly.

Oge used sketches of three existing schools to show how students would be redistributed and how many additional classrooms would be needed at Bay Junior High and Waveland Elementary.

The only expansions proposed at North Bay Elementary include a covered area for physical education classes and additional library, teacher preparation and administration space rather than classrooms.

Enrollment at that school, which has 20 classrooms and three special education rooms, would be capped at 400 students, with the remainder being bussed to Waveland.

According to Assistant Superintendent Robert Magee, North Bay would still be able to handle the kindergarten to third grade students from Bay St. Louis even with the 400 population cap.

He said the district's biggest growth trends have been in Waveland and the "outside territory," a term used to refer to a section of the school district located in the county.

If that school should become unable to handle all of the Bay students in the future, children will be chosen for assignment to North Bay on a priority basis determined by the proximity of their residences to the school.

At the junior high school, fourth graders will probably attend classes in the S.J. Ingram Building, with fifth and sixth graders in the main building and the downstairs section of the gymnasium.

Services such as cafeteria, special education, library, Chapter 1, speech therapy and accelerated learning programs will be located downstairs.

According to Oge, those facilities would then be available to handicapped students and the district would be spared the cost of constructing an elevator, something the building presently does not have.

The junior high's former shop area would be divided to provide three classrooms for additional school population growth.

Construction of eight new classrooms is planned at Waveland Elementary, where 12 classrooms and Chapter 1, speech and special education areas already exist.

The proposal for additions to Bay High is not yet available.

The number of new classrooms originally estimated for the senior high school was 30, but Oge said the final number of new rooms is expected to be fewer than 30.

The distribution of students at each school is being planned to meet state accreditation standards that limit the number of students allowed per class per teacher, Magee stated.

Presently, sections of most classes in the district are too large to meet those standards.

The board will hold its regular February meeting at 7 p.m. Monday in the boardroom at Bay Senior High.

Drainage work begun on Texas Flat Road

BY DENA BISNETTE

Texas Flat Road is getting a facelift.

First, part of the road from Highway 603 to McLeod Park was blacktopped. Now, drainage work is being done on the remaining section of road leading to Highway 607.

After several years of attempting to obtain federal assistance for paving the road from the U.S. Army through its Strategic Defense Access Road Program, the county is trying a different route.

The board was told last year by Hilda Bourg, head of a committee involved in the funding project, that the road had been placed on a funding priority list and at least a year's wait would be involved before the project could be considered for approval.

The county is now trying to get the road approved for Public Lands Highways Funds, according to Board of Supervisors Attorney Gerald Gex.

Texas Flat Road was considered a possible candidate for the Army funding because the end at 607 is near the back entrance to the Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant.

To qualify for the Federal Aid System the road must first be placed on the Federal Aid System, and the board has already requested that placement, Gex said.

The road must also be entirely within federal lands. Gex said the road may fall into that category because it is located in the buffer zone for NASA's National Space Technology Laboratories.

Gex said he had written to Congressmen Trent Lott, Senator John Stennis and Senator Thad Cochran for opinions regarding whether the buffer zone is considered public lands.

So far, only Cochran has acknowledged the letter and offered assistance, the attorney said Wednesday.

Some bridge work has already been done in the unpaved section of the road, which is in Beat Two Supervisor A.A. Kellar's district.

In addition, County Maintenance Superintendent Bill Johnson has crews working on drainage problems this week.

Johnson explained the driving surface of the road had apparently been graded on a more regular basis than the shoulders of the road.

Over a long time, the shoulders have built up, causing water to be trapped on the driving surface and contributing to washouts.

In addition to grading the shoulders, ditches along the road are being cleaned, the maintenance superintendent added.

Floor plans for these two schools and North Bay Elementary were on display at Thursday's special school board meeting and had been altered to show how the district's student population will be redistributed under the current long-range building program proposal. City seeking authorization for additional sales tax

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Bay St. Louis City Council voted Tuesday to request local and private bills for both a one-half cent sales tax for the school district and for a one-cent additional sales tax for wastewater district expenses.

Mayor Victor Frankiewicz reported a one-half cent sales tax in both Bay St. Louis and Waveland had been suggested by a Task Force formed recently to investigate the possibility of additional sales tax to support the school and lower ad valorem taxes.

The council concurred on the need for the additional sales tax in both Bay St. Louis and Waveland and instructed Frankiewicz to set a meeting with Waveland and Hancock County officials for further discussion.

The council also conducted a lengthy discussion on Councilman James Thrifley's recommendation for a one-cent, one-year sales tax to pay the city's expenses in the Waveland Wastewater District.

"The wastewater expenses is such a burden at this time and the one-cent sales tax will enable us to reduce the millage and possibly have a positive cash flow going into the next fiscal year," Thrifley said.

He said the city is currently paying all of the money collected in property taxes to the wastewater district.

Thrifley said he didn't believe it was the intent of the agencies which had mandated the usage of the wastewater district to burden a city of Bay St. Louis' size so that all property taxes collected had to be used to pay for the sewerage treatment plant.

"We had a millage increase this year and will have another small one if we don't do anything now," he said.

"The positive cash flow and the new utility user fees resulting from recent sewerage construction will help us to keep the millage low," Thrifley added.

The deadline for local and private bills on additional millage is Thursday, but the matter will not likely be brought before the legislature before late February, Frankiewicz said.

Two travelers charged with grand larceny

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

A routine check on the National Crime Information Computer led to the arrest of two men for grand larceny.

Mitchell Rab Vonlindern, 27, of California and John Eric Robitaille, 19, of Portland, Ore. were arrested and charged with grand larceny for their alleged theft of motorcycles, according to Bay Detective Chuck James.

The two had applied for travel aid money from the Hancock County Emergency Relief Fund and in a NCIC check and subsequent investigation, outstanding warrants for grand larceny were discovered on both men.

A warrant from Cordelane, Idaho is listed on Vonlindern and one from Milpitas, Calif. is listed on Robitaille.

Vonlindern and Robitaille have waived extradition and are currently being held in the Hancock County Jail under a $10,000 bond.

James said Wednesday Cordelane, Idaho law enforcement authorities will be coming to Hancock County to transport both men back to Idaho.

Bay resident in critical condition following train accident Sunday

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Bay St. Louis resident Milton E. Moran who was injured when a train hit his van Sunday morning is in critical but stable condition in the intensive care unit at Memorial Hospital in Gulfport.

Moran, 57, of 407 Eastbrook St., underwent surgery Monday to repair the main artery of his heart which was damaged in the impact of the accident, according to his son Gene Moran.

The son also said Moran suffered a stroke during surgery and was paralyzed on his right side and was currently utilizing a breathing machine.

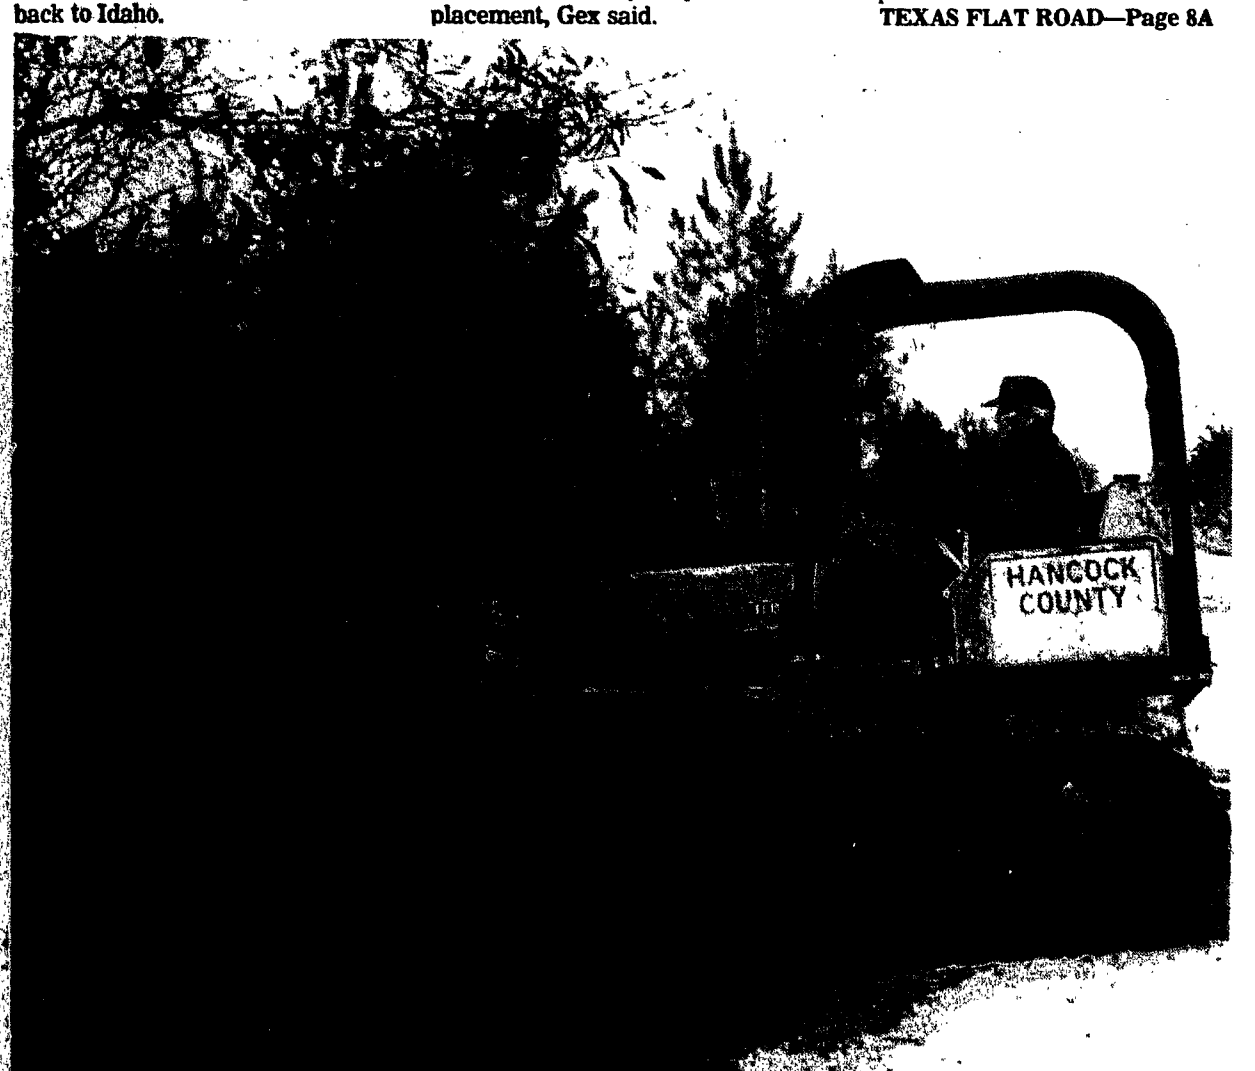

Moran's van, which was stalled on the railroad tracks near Bowlin Lane, was struck on the driver's side by an eastbound train with five locomotives and 50 cars. The van was dragged 218 feet before it was pushed off to the right side of the tracks.

The train came to a stop approximately 750 feet past the point of impact. Police estimate the speed of the train at about 30 miles per hour.

A Bay Police Department spokesman said Moran had left Bayou Jacques' bar in Bay St. Louis around 5 p.m. He was headed north on Bowlin Road when he crossed into the southbound lane, and went off the road where the van stalled on the railroad tracks.

Following the accident Moran was transported by MobileMedic to Hancock General Hospital and later transferred to Memorial Hospital.

Farm programs offer advance payments

To provide producers with additional cash flow for spring plantings, Franklin A. Gennin, CED, said advance payments are being offered during the signup for the 1987 wheat, feed grain, upland cotton and rice acreage reduction programs.

Advance payments represent 40 percent of the projected deficiency payments for wheat and feed grains, and 30 percent for upland cotton and rice.

"Feed grain producers also may request 50 percent of their land diversion payments," Gennin said.

Deficiency payments are made to farm program participants when the average market price falls below the established target price for a crop. Gennin said target prices per bushel for 1987 are $3.03 for corn, $2.88 for sorghum, $2.60 for barley, $1.60 for oats, and $4.38 for wheat. The target price is 79.4 cents a pound for upland cotton and $11.66 per hundredweight for rice.

He said the projected deficiency payment rates per bushel are $2.10 for wheat, $1.21 for corn, $1.14 for sorghum, $1.11 for barley, and $5.55 cents for oats. Projected deficiency payment rates are 27.15 cents per pound for upland cotton and 4.82 cents for rice.

"The advance deficiency payments equal one-half the projected deficiency payment rate, times the farm program yield, times the indicated acreage to be planted, not to exceed the permitted acreage of the crop."

In addition to deficiency payments, Gennin said feed grain farmers who sign up will be eligible for land diversion payments at a rate of $2 per bushel for corn; $1.90 for sorghum; $1.60 for barley and $8.00 per bushel for oats. "One-half of the advance deficiency and diversion payments will be issued in cash and the remainder will be paid in generic commodity certificates," said Gennin.

A farmer who accepts an advance payment, but who later does not comply with program provisions, must refund the amount of the advance payment with interest plus liquidated damages, according to ASCS official Franklin A. Gennin.

The 1987 commodity programs call for a 27.5 percent reduction in wheat acres; 20 percent for feed grains, with an optional 15 percent paid diversion; 25 percent for upland cotton, 35 percent for rice and 10 percent for extra long staple cotton.

Applications for the 1987 programs may be filed at the Pearl River-Hancock County ASCS Office.

The interim report had included six recommendations, including a request for a progress and financial report on the unit system by County Maintenance Superintendent to the next Grand Jury, scheduled to convene in July.

Other recommendations included use of funds seized in drug raids for electronic surveillance equipment for the county sheriff's department, sale of the Hancock General Hospital Building to benefit Hancock Medical Center, and construction of a new school on land near Stennis Airport recently donated to the Hancock County School District.

The Grand Jurors also recommended that new facilities be provided for the Hancock County Welfare Department and that the Hancock County Board of Supervisors provide letters of appreciation to various Louisiana law enforcement agencies that have assisted the sheriff's department.

County school district to get 31 new computer terminals

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
The Hancock County School Board okayed Monday the purchase of 31 new model computer terminals in the ongoing project to provide computer assisted learning to as many students as possible.

These terminals will interface with the existing school computer system to allow seventh and eighth grade students computer assisted learning.

Superintendent Terrell Randolph said this $164,000 purchase is included in expenditures of approximately a half million dollars since last year to upgrade the district's computer programs.

A large portion of this money is provided in federal projects. There is a $12,000 difference in the cost of the new terminals compared to the type of terminals currently used.

However, the new terminals may be utilized for many more programs than the older models, Randolph said.

Also at the meeting, the board approved payments to the Public Employees Retirement System of Mississippi for Walter J. Phillips and Randolph for retirement contributions not paid by the district while they were employed with the district.

Exact amounts of the payments will be determined on the state level but payments are estimated at $700 for Phillips and $1,400 for Randolph.

In other business the board: —Approved a recommendation to employ James Harvey as math teacher at Gulfview Elementary School for the remainder of the school year.

—Approved a recommendation to employ Catherine Schmalz as special education teacher at Gulfview.

—Approved a request to the State Department of Education for emergency certification for Catherine Schmalz in the area of special education.

—Approved a recommendation to employ Alta Darlene Mills as secondary teacher at Hancock North Central High School.

—Approved a recommendation to employ Shirley Barras as substitute teacher at Charles B. Murphy Elementary.

—Approved a recommendation to employ Amy Ladner, Christy Lafontaine, Tracy Lustch, Linda Rivera and Kay Sones as substitute teachers at Gulfview.

—Approved a recommendation to employ Mary Jane Lizana as substitute teacher for Karen Kopf's class at Hancock North Central High School.

—Approved a recommendation to employ Sheila Diane Descamp, Charles Waltman and Amie Emmons as bus drivers for the remainder of the school year.

—Conducted a 30-minute executive session to schedule an expulsion hearing for a student.

—Amended a November meeting's minutes to clarify the reason why Board Member Lynette Necaise voted against the construction of additional classrooms at Gulfview. In an earlier meeting, the board voted to put a plaque on the school indicating Necaise's no vote but subsequently withdrew the motion when she requested the reason for her not vote be included on the plaque.

Necaise said she was not opposed to the construction project, but to giving a seven percent payment to Architect Fred Wagner when others had offered to do the job for six percent.

Board wants local and private bill

County to repeat request for trammel, gill net ban

By DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has agreed to ask the Mississippi Legislature to prohibit trammel netting along recreational beaches.

The board had unsuccessfully requested last year that trammel netting and gill netting be stopped.

Beat One Supervisor Bert Courge asked Monday that the request be made again this year. The matter would have to be handled through a local and private bill of the legislature.

Bureau of Marine Resources would serve as enforcement agency if a ban on the nets can be enacted, Courge said.

Also on Monday, the board heard a request from Beat Three Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner regarding equipment maintenance.

After looking at a report from Maintenance Superintendent Bill Johnson, Ladner asked the board for further consideration of possibilities for increasing the in-house maintenance on road and bridge equipment.

According to Ladner, equipment maintenance has cost the county an average of about $6,000 per month, or $74,000, during the first five months under the unit system.

He asked about an employee qualified to do diesel work.

Johnson explained that the employee is presently used as a trouble-shooter in the field, repairing machines that break down on work sites or diagnosing problems that can not be repaired on site.

The county has acquired a jail trusty who is a qualified diesel mechanic for work at the new central barn on Highway 13 in Kiln.

Johnson has also told the supervisors he expects maintenance costs to decrease once the barn is in full operation.

Completion of the building is scheduled for Friday barring weather problems.

In other business Monday, the board:

—Appointed Cel Dumestre to the Hancock County Animal Commission;

—Amended the budget to include funds seized during a drug raid and earmarked for use by the Hancock County Sheriff's Department and funds from utility overcharges returned to the county;

—Approved authorization for the sheriff's department to move an abandoned car in Clermont Harbor;

—Authorized Sheriff Ronald Peterson to hire Pauline Ruhr as dispatcher to replace James Odom, who was recently hired as warden for the new Hancock County Criminal Justice Facility;

—Discussed a Community Development Block Grant application for a new County Welfare Department building;

Arbor Day celebration scheduled at Beauvoir

The tradition of celebrating Arbor Day at Beauvoir, Jefferson Davis Shrine, will be continued this year on Friday, Feb. 13 by the Gulf Coast Area Council of Garden Clubs. Mrs. W.W. Dreher of Gulfport is president of the Council. This organization represents thirty-three garden clubs from Pascagoula to Bay-Waveland.

The celebration was begun after Hurricane Elena decimated the ancient live oaks on the grounds of Beauvoir. The garden clubs along the coast are trying to replace the trees so that future generations will be able to enjoy the beauty of Jefferson Davis' last home. The Gulf Coast Council and the United Daughters of the Confederacy have contributed over thirty trees for this event.

The planting ceremony will be preceded by a program in the Beauvoir chapel at 2 p.m. on Feb. 13. James O. Berry, president of the joint governing boards of Beauvoir, will welcome guests. Mrs. W.W. Westberry, Spanish Trail District Director, Garden Clubs of Mississippi Inc., will offer the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag. Mrs. F.B. Feeney, Council Pilgrimage Chairman for 1987, will give a brief devotional. Keith Hardison, Superintendent of Beauvoir Shrine, will offer a resolution of thanks to organizations which have contributed trees. He will outline in brief, future landscaping plans for the grounds.

The Mississippi Army National Guard will hold an Open House on Saturday afternoon in Bay St. Louis.

The Open House will have equipment on display at the Armory located on Longfellow Road, next to the Hancock County Fairgrounds, with festivities beginning at 1 p.m.

Children will be given an opportunity to test weapons with blank ammo.

As most of you know, our Mississippi National Guard Unit is available to the public when there is a need.

In recent years, the unit has been active with disasters such as hurricanes.

This would be a good time for the community to let the Mississippi National Guard know how much their good works are appreciated.

It is hoped there will be a large public turnout for the Guard's Open House on Saturday.

It is good to see the remodeling and cleanup of the former Jitney Jungle location in downtown Bay St. Louis.

We have also had several people tell us how glad they are to see the building and grounds being spruced up.

The building will now be the new home for Bay Technical.

This, along with the many new downtown businesses, will help renew interest in the area.

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

It appears even more likely now than it was three months ago that Sen. John Stennis plans to run for re-election next year when he will reach age 87, notwithstanding widespread public belief that this was going to be his last term.

Further evidence that Stennis will again offer himself as a candidate in 1988 comes from former U.S. Rep. David Bowen, now a political science professor at Mississippi State University, who has held himself in readiness to run for the Senate when Stennis steps down.

After a recent visit to the Washington scene, Bowen came back with the firm belief that there was no point in his making any plans for a Senate campaign next year because Big John has no intentions of quitting.

Bowen evidently picked that up from some of Stennis' colleagues in the Senate to whom the venerable Mississippian had confided his plans for re-election.

A lot of water could pass under the bridge between now and January 5, 1989 when Stennis' present term will expire. It will be necessary for Stennis before very long to make known back in Mississippi what he plans to do.

There is one very significant quirk in next year's election dates that comes into play as a result of Mississippi's newly approved state election law reforms.

Because of the emphasis in the new law upon Mississippi being able to participate in the March 8, 1988 Southern Super Tuesday presidential preference primary, the Legislature backed up the date for next year's Congressional primaries to the same date.

This means that if Stennis runs for the Democratic nomination, he will have to run in the March 8, 1988 party primary. To get on the ballot, Stennis would have to qualify for re-election by next January 3, exactly 10 months before the 1988 general election.

Thus, Stennis will have to make up his mind and reveal his plans perhaps far sooner than he would like. What of course must be considered is the fact that with Stennis' advanced age, the dates and the period of time involved become quite important.

It is quite unlikely that any "name" Democrat would challenge Stennis if he puts his name on the ballot again next time. But, on the other hand, it is almost certain that some "no-name" Democrat will get on to the March 8, 1988 ballot with him.

Therein lies the first of several problematical situations surrounding Stennis' age which could bring about some surprising results in the 1988 Senate race.

Should something happen to Stennis between Jan. 8 and March 8, 1988, it could leave the Democrats stuck with some nobody as the party nominee, and almost certain disaster in the November general election. In fact, under the new election law, it would be impossible for the Democrats then to get a desirable independent on the general election ballot.

Another scenario involves the Republicans, who most certainly will not have a viable "name" candidate against Stennis, on the age factor alone, and the possibility that Stennis might not be around for the Nov. 8, 1988 general election.

From March 8 to Nov. 8 is quite a long time for any candidate to campaign, much less one who is an octogenarian. In the interim he faced with a situation after Stennis won the Democratic nomination that he passed out of the picture, under the new law, it would become the province of the State Democratic Executive Committee to select the party nominee.

Here again, there could be some unusual consequences. When a vacancy occurs within the last year of a Senator's term, the governor can appoint someone to serve the remainder of the term.

The Democratic Executive Committee could be confronted with the possibility of having to pick the governor's choice (if he is a Democrat) or selecting someone else as the party nominee.

What happened in Alabama last year when the State Democratic Committee picked then Lt. Governor Bill Baxley as the party nominee could be somewhat disconcerting if Mississippi's Democrats were faced with a similar experience. Public reaction in Alabama resulted in electing that state's first Republican governor.

You never realized how complicated politics can become, did you?

Why does just snap out of it

We wouldn't expect someone with a mental illness to get better without treatment. Yet, often, for the victims of mental illness, treatment is not even considered. In fact, of the over 35 million Americans afflicted, only one in five gets treatment because their symptoms are either ignored or misread as mere personality problems.

But mental illness is a medical illness that requires medical attention. And today there is real progress in its treatment—two out of three victims can get better and lead productive lives.

Legislative Update

By Ellen Ann Fentress

Debate over a highway construction plan for the state and over replacing the Mississippi constitution of 1890 dominated the past week at the Capitol.

The biggest drama came from House deliberations over a proposed $1.5 billion highway four-laning plan, with the House first rejecting the proposal and having a change of heart on Friday and approving it with no votes to spare.

The Senate agreed essentially to the same 14-year highway plan last week, but proposed paying for it with a five-cent-per-gallon increase in motor fuels tax.

The House plan raises the money through a list of sources:

- Remove the six percent sales tax from motor fuels and increase the excise tax on fuels by nine cents to a flat 18-cents-per-gallon to raise $49.5 million yearly.

- Collect $2.5 million in taxes from highway contractors;

- Establish a $5 annual vehicle registration fee and discontinue the $5 annual state-mandated car inspection, which costs drivers $5 annually. Drivers pay no more, but the state would receive about $3 million extra;

- $25 million yearly in federal construction funds and
- $375 million over the 14-year life of the program from the increasing annual surplus from retiring the existing highway construction bond debts.

Representatives spent two days debating highways, first rejecting the plan on Thursday 64-53 and then approving it 69-46 on Friday. The passage came after supporters of the highway plan chided Coast lawmakers for their opposition to the bill, which does not include improvements to highways near the Coast.

The revenue measure required a three-fifths margin for passage and needed exactly 69 votes for passage on Friday.

On the constitution front, any move to kill the push for a constitutional convention was delayed until at least this week.

The House Constitution Committee had been expected to give the new constitution proposal a death sentence at its mid-week meeting, but delayed its vote by a week.

Also on the constitution, advocates of replacing it opposed a proposed amendment to the present constitution to delete the section forbidding interracial marriage.

The House gave final approval to the measure 70-40, which still requires Senate review.

Supporters of a new constitution said efforts to sanitize the present constitution amendment by amendment was a back door attempt to defuse the debate.

The Senate endorsed a referendum on a new state constitution in a 43-4 vote two weeks ago and released it to the House after giving its final approval to the bill 42-6 the past week.

While the Senate Constitution Committee has endorsed a statewide vote on replacing the 1890 constitution, it also approved four proposed amendments to the present constitution during the week to ease restrictions on Mississippi corporations.

Outside of the House highway debate, lawmakers spent much of the week in committee rooms, since committees face a Feb. 5 deadline for taking some action on non-revenue bills.

House Concurrent Resolution 13-

Representatives gave final approval 70-40 to a proposed constitutional amendment to delete a prohibition against interracial marriage in the state constitution. Some advocates of a new state constitution objected, criticizing the measure as a move to defuse debate over replacing the whole document.

Walter Phillips, Yea.

House Bill 1206, Amendment 13

House members rejected 53-65 a move to substitute Gov. Bill Allain's more modest 450-mile proposed highway program to a legislative plan to four-lane 1,059 miles of road. Allain's plan relied heavily on federal funds and required no tax increase. Legislators complained it so concentrated federal funds on the construction that it would deprive untargated parts of the states from receiving any highway funds.

Walter Phillips, Yea.

House Bill 1206 on Jan. 29

House members rejected a 14-year, 1,059-mile highway building plan to be funded from a list of highway-user sources and federal funds to raise $1.5 billion. The vote was 64-53, short of the 71-vote, three-fifths margin necessary for passage.

Walter Phillips, Nay.

House Bill 1206 on Jan. 30

The House had a change of heart, passing the highway program 69-46, the exact margin needed for a three-fifths vote.

Walter Phillips, Nay.

Senate Bill 2229

The Senate approved 42-6 a measure calling for a statewide referendum on a state constitutional convention. The Senate approved the referendum the previous week, but last week modified a section of the bill in a voice vote to give voters the option of ratifying any final draft of a new constitution as a whole or article by article.

Gene Taylor, Yea.

The Senate also passed two bills unanimously that were of interest. One bill allowed inactive nurses to retain a special license while they are not practicing. The second bill reversed a law that requires that printers keep ballots secret prior to election day.

Youth group coordinator disappointed in parent's participation

The Sea Coast Echo
Letter to the Editor:

A parent meeting was called Sunday, Feb. 1 at 2 p.m. for the Clermont Harbor Youth Corps.

Special guests included Burt Courge, Hancock County supervisor and Ronnie Peterson, sheriff of Hancock County.

The meeting, however, was a disappointment to the coordinators due to lack of attendance.

The topics discussed were important to the community and very informative.

The Youth Corps is doing such a great job; they're so enthusiastic and work so diligently, I can't believe the parents failed to stop by and learn the inner works of this group.

Coordinating the activities, arranging their lunches, keeping financial accounts, counting the bags, arranging for pickups, trips to the county barn and notifying these youths, takes time and effort.

The coordinators were hoping to share some of this with the other parents.

These kids have proven themselves, and one only has to ride around Clermont Harbor to see the success of this Youth Corps.

Increased sales tax unjust to people on fixed income

Editor
Sea Coast Echo

As everyone knows, the property tax millage in Bay St. Louis was in one sudden stroke raised 54 percent. This has placed an intolerable burden on all of us. At first impression, it appears that businesses were singled out, but the millage increase has largely obliterated the intended reduction in homeowners' taxes that was to occur statewide by dropping the assessed valuation to 10 percent of appraisal.

In an effort to alleviate the situation, there is a move under way to increase the sales tax to 7 percent. The sales tax is, however, a particularly counter productive tax. It will not affect those who go out of our community to shop, but it will penalize those from other areas of the coast who come here to buy. It is a particularly cruel and unjust tax to those of limited income who must buy their food and clothing locally.

Our burgeoning rate of taxation threatens everyone of us who live and work here. It encourages people to leave the area.

What is needed is to encourage efficiencies on the city and county level, and to trim expenditures to the bare necessities.

Precipitous increases in rates of taxation should not be imposed by a few people. It is all of us who are being asked to pay, and all of us should have a say. Let us not be coerced into offering yet another source of revenue to burden our already over-taxed population, especially not one so short-sighted as a sales tax increase.

A message to Big Brother

Dear Editor,
Please relay this message to Big Brother for me.

Dear Big Brother,
I am disappointed in you. Why, you are nothing but a rumor-monger. And to think that I've spent 22 years in the U.S. Navy defending you. Now you've turned on me like a rabid dog; and all because someone whispered something about me in your ear. On top of everything else you would not believe me when I told you that the rumor was not true.

The constitution that I have been defending reads in part:
...man is endowed with certain inalienable rights - among them are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness...

Today (Jan. 29), on or about 1:30 p.m., you attempted to violate all of these sacred rights; rights which over the past 200 years millions of Americans have lost their lives defending; but no, today you decide to suspend them.

In case you forgot, let me remind you of what happened.

I was given a woodburning, parlor stove. Since I don't have room for it in my trailer I installed it outside, in the middle of the yard. Most of my neighbors have been here at one time or another; while the children play the adults will sit around the stove enjoying the heat and whatever they wish to drink. Sometimes we will play musical instruments, other times we will spin yarns about the "big one that got away." Sometimes my wife will cook outside, with the results being that that stove has helped make my yard a corner of heaven.

Two women came along from the Welfare Department saying that someone had complained that I don't have heat in my house because I have been seen sitting by a woodburning stove.

She took note of it and then said that she wanted to come into my house. I told her that I was not on welfare. She said that she still had to check for heaters; I told her that I was not heating the state into my house. As she was leaving I asked what the outcome of this would be. She said he was coming back with a deputy. I told her that the deputy could not come into my house, that it would take a court action.

Well Big Brother, I think you had better reread the constitution.

Sincerely,
Antonio Ramirez

It was a summer of trial for my younger son, some years ago, when, freshly graduated from Tulane, he was spending the summer at our home on the Coast before starting the work of his choice.

Since we were still a two-city (New Orleans and the Pass) and a two-home family, Jack was often on his own at dinnertime, and the dinner invitations were many in our neighborhood.

Especially from one of our closest friends, Georgia-born and reared, who kept insisting that Jack come over for chicken fricassee, that favorite of Southern cooks.

The only trouble was that Jack, born and bred in New Orleans, of Irish-descended parents who followed Creole cookery ways, was used to the rich, dark brown, often wine-accented fricassee of New Orleans; and his dearly loved "Deak" insisted on serving him her Georgia-style fricassee, which to him was "milky gravy all over the chicken."

Dark sauce or gravy, or milky-gravy for the fricassee is almost as hotly a debated question in the Southland as is the proper way to cook Southern fried chicken - and friendships, as you know, have been weakened or lost over that!

I had always taken it for granted that Chicken Fricassee was an old-time Southern dish; in fact, for a long time in my younger days I believed our family cook had dreamed it up in an effort to make more tasty an old hen or so.

But, quite by accident, I learned that what I considered the South's own Chicken Fricassee was in truth one of the oldest recorded recipes in existence - "fricassee" is mentioned in almost every cookbook from the 16th and 17th centuries!

Books of that time contained a number of terms not much in use today - and a "quelquechose" - a "something" - was a "fricassee."

And, as is the case with so many words of French origin, something was lost in the translation, and the words turned into something quite different - and the fricassee became the "kickshaw" which means a sort of fancy tidbit! So much for languages and such!

At any rate, a fricassee just means the browning of meat or chicken in just a little fat or oil, then cooking it ever so slowly, covered, of course, in a heavy pot, in its own juices or in other liquid of your choice, such as wine, broth or vegetable juice - and, oh, what it does for a not-so-tender cut of meat or an old hen!

It's economical, too, whether you choose milky or dark sauce... So, here's:

KATY'S CHICKEN FRICASSEE

1 stewing chicken or fryer, cut in pieces, butter or oil for browning, wine as desired, black pepper, cayenne, salt, 4 cups stock or water, and chopped parsley, onion, to your taste.

Salt and pepper the chicken and roll it in flour, then brown it in the oil or butter or combination of the two. Remove the chicken, add the seasonings to the pot, then the stock or water, along with a cup of white wine, if desired.

Return the chicken to the pot, and simmer, covered, until the chicken is tender - from one hour or two and more depending on tenderness. Just before serving, add chopped parsley and chipped green onions. Serve over rice. (Four to six servings.)

If you're a milky gravy fan, add a cup or so of milk or cream when the chicken is tender, along with butter, if needed, and stir around to make your creamy sauce.

Income tax help available for retired

Free assistance in completing tax returns is now available to the retired and the elderly through TCE TAX-AIDE (Tax Counseling for the Elderly), a program of the American Association of Retired Persons.

AARP Tax Counseling for the Elderly is a program coordinated by the Internal Revenue Service to provide free tax information and assistance to persons age 60 and over.

Volunteers are specially trained by IRS to help older Americans with their special concerns, such as tax credit for the elderly, the double personal exemptions, the special treatment of the gain on the sale of a home for age 55 and older, the proper method of reporting pension income and paying tax on it when necessary and other subjects of special interest and concern.

These volunteers will also fill out their tax returns. TCE is provided in the neighborhood areas, generally at public libraries, which makes getting needed help easier and more convenient.

In 1985 TCE assisted older persons in filling out one and one-half million federal and state returns. Twenty-three thousand volunteers worked in the program nationally.

Beginning in February trained AARP volunteer counselors will be available at the following locations: The Pass Christian Public Library, 111 Hiern Avenue from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. each Tuesday and the Bay St. Louis City-County Library, 312 Hwy 90, from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. each Wednesday.

Persons desiring free AARP TAX-AIDE assistance should bring a copy of their last tax return and all documents pertaining to filing 1986 returns.

The Mississippi Army National Guard will hold an Open House on Saturday afternoon in Bay St. Louis.

The Open House will have equipment on display at the Armory located on Longfellow Road, next to the Hancock County Fairgrounds, with festivities beginning at 1 p.m.

Children will be given an opportunity to test weapons with blank ammo.

As most of you know, our Mississippi National Guard Unit is available to the public when there is a need.

In recent years, the unit has been active with disasters such as hurricanes.

This would be a good time for the community to let the Mississippi National Guard know how much their good works are appreciated.

It is hoped there will be a large public turnout for the Guard's Open House on Saturday.

It is good to see the remodeling and cleanup of the former Jitney Jungle location in downtown Bay St. Louis.

We have also had several people tell us how glad they are to see the building and grounds being spruced up.

The building will now be the new home for Bay Technical.

This, along with the many new downtown businesses, will help renew interest in the area.

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

It appears even more likely now than it was three months ago that Sen. John Stennis plans to run for re-election next year when he will reach age 87, notwithstanding widespread public belief that this was going to be his last term.

Further evidence that Stennis will again offer himself as a candidate in 1988 comes from former U.S. Rep. David Bowen, now a political science professor at Mississippi State University, who has held himself in readiness to run for the Senate when Stennis steps down.

After a recent visit to the Washington scene, Bowen came back with the firm belief that there was no point in his making any plans for a Senate campaign next year because Big John has no intentions of quitting.

Bowen evidently picked that up from some of Stennis' colleagues in the Senate, to whom the venerable Mississippian had confided his plans for re-election.

A lot of water could pass under the bridge between now and January 5, 1989 when Stennis' present term will expire. It will be necessary for Stennis before very long to make known back in Mississippi what he plans to do.

There is one very significant quirk in next year's election dates that comes into play as a result of Mississippi's newly approved state election law reforms.

Because of the emphasis in the new law upon Mississippi being able to participate in the March 8, 1988 Southern Super Tuesday presidential preference primary, the Legislature backed up the date for next year's Congressional primaries to the same date.

This means that if Stennis runs for the Democratic nomination, he will have to run in the March 8, 1988 party primary. To get on the ballot, Stennis would have to qualify for re-election by next January 3, exactly 10 months before the 1988 general election.

Thus, Stennis will have to make up his mind and reveal his plans perhaps far sooner than he would like. What of course must be considered is the fact that with Stennis' advanced age, the dates and the period of time involved become quite important.

It is quite unlikely that any "name" Democrat would challenge Stennis if he puts his name on the ballot again next time. But, on the other hand, it is almost certain that some "no-name" Democrat will get on to the March 8, 1988 ballot with him.

Therein lies the first of several problematical situations surrounding Stennis' age which could bring about some surprising results in the 1988 Senate race.

Should something happen to Stennis between Jan. 8 and March 8, 1988, it could leave the Democrats stuck with some nobody as the party nominee, and almost certain disaster in the November general election. In fact, under the new election law, it would be impossible for the Democrats then to get a desirable independent on the general election ballot.

Another scenario involves the Republicans, who most certainly will have a rather formidable "name" candidate against Stennis, on the age factor alone, and the possibility that Stennis might not be around for the Nov. 8, 1988 general election.

From March 8 to Nov. 8 is quite a long time for any candidate to campaign, much less one who is an octogenarian. Should the Democrats in the interim be faced with a situation after Stennis won the Democratic nomination that he passed out of the picture, under the new law, it would become the province of the State Democratic Executive Committee to select the party nominee.

Here again, there could be some unusual consequences. When a vacancy occurs within the last year of a Senator's term, the governor can appoint someone to serve the remainder of the term.

The Democratic Executive Committee could be confronted with the possibility of having to pick the governor's choice (if he is a Democrat) or selecting someone else as the party nominee.

What happened in Alabama last year when the State Democratic Committee picked then Lt. Governor Bill Baxley as the party nominee could be somewhat disconcerting if Mississippi's Democrats were faced with a similar experience. Public reaction in Alabama resulted in electing that state's first Republican governor.

You never realized how complicated politics can become, did you?

Why does it take just snap out of it?

We wouldn't expect someone with a mental illness to get better without treatment. Yet, often, for the victims of mental illness, treatment is not even considered. In fact, of the over 35 million Americans afflicted, only one in five gets treatment because their symptoms are either ignored or misread as mere personality problems.

But mental illness is a medical illness that requires medical attention. And today there is real progress in its treatment—two out of three victims can get better and lead productive lives.

Legislative Update

By Ellen Ann Fentress
Debate over a highway construction plan for the state and over replacing the Mississippi constitution of 1890 dominated the past week at the Capitol.

The biggest drama came from House deliberations over a proposed $1.5 billion highway four-laning plan, with the House first rejecting the proposal and having a change of heart on Friday and approving it with no votes to spare.

The Senate agreed essentially to the same 14-year highway plan last week, but proposed paying for it with a five-cent-per-gallon increase in motor fuels tax.

The House plan raises the money through a list of sources:

- Remove the six percent sales tax from motor fuels and increase the excise tax on fuels by nine cents to a flat 18-cents-per-gallon to raise $49.5 million yearly.

- Collect $2.5 million in taxes from highway contractors;

- Establish a $5 annual vehicle registration fee and discontinue the $5 annual state-mandated car inspection, which costs drivers $5 annually. Drivers pay no more, but the state would receive about $8 million extra;

- $25 million yearly in federal construction funds and

- $375 million over the 14-year life of the program from the increasing annual surplus from retiring the existing highway construction bond debts.

Representatives spent two days debating highways, first rejecting the plan on Thursday 64-53 and then approving it 69-46 on Friday. The passage came after supporters of the highway plan chided Coast lawmakers for their opposition to the bill, which does not include improvements to highways near the Coast.

The revenue measure required a three-fifths margin for passage and needed exactly 69 votes for passage on Friday.

On the constitution front, any move to kill the push for a constitutional convention was delayed until at least this week.

The House Constitution Committee had been expected to give the new constitution proposal a death sentence at its mid-week meeting, but delayed its vote by a week.

Also on the constitution, advocates of replacing it opposed a proposed amendment to the present constitution to delete the section forbidding interracial marriage.

The House gave final approval to the measure 70-40, which still requires Senate review.

Supporters of a new constitution said efforts to sanitize the present constitution amendment by amendment was a back door attempt to defuse the debate.

The Senate endorsed a referendum on a new state constitution in a 43-4 vote two weeks ago and released it to the House after giving its final approval to the bill 42-6 the past week.

While the Senate Constitution Committee has endorsed a statewide vote on replacing the 1890 constitution, it also approved four proposed amendments to the present constitution during the week to ease restrictions on Mississippi corporations.

Outside of the House highway debate, lawmakers spent much of the week in committee rooms, since committees face a Feb. 5 deadline for taking some action on non-revenue bills.

House Concurrent Resolution 13 Representatives gave final approval 70-40 to a proposed constitutional amendment to delete a prohibition against interracial marriage in the state constitution. Some advocates of a new state constitution objected, criticizing the measure as a move to defuse debate over replacing the whole document.

Walter Phillips, Yea.
House Bill 1206, Amendment 13 House members rejected 53-65 a move to substitute Gov. Bill Allain's more modest 450-mile proposed highway program to a legislative plan to four-lane 1,059 miles of road.

Allain's plan relied heavily on federal funds and required no tax increase. Legislators complained it so concentrated federal funds on the construction that it would deprive untargated parts of the states from receiving any highway funds.

Walter Phillips, Yea.
House Bill 1206 on Jan. 29 House members rejected a 14-year, 1,059-mile highway building plan to be funded from a list of highway-user sources and federal funds to raise $1.5 billion. The vote was 64-53, short of the 71-vote, three-fifths margin necessary for passage.

Walter Phillips, Nay.
House Bill 1206 on Jan. 30 The House had a change of heart, passing the highway program 69-46, the exact margin needed for a three-fifths vote.

Walter Phillips, Nay.
Senate Bill 2229 The Senate approved 42-6 a measure calling for a statewide referendum on a state constitutional convention. The Senate approved the referendum the previous week, but last week modified a section of the bill in a voice vote to give voters the option of ratifying any final draft of a new constitution as a whole or article by article.

Gene Taylor, Yea.
The Senate also passed two bills unanimously that were of interest. One bill allowed inactive nurses to retain a special license while they are not practicing. The second bill reversed a law that requires that printers keep ballots secret prior to election day.

Youth group coordinator disappointed in parent's participation

The Sea Coast Echo
Letter to the Editor:

A parent meeting was called Sunday, Feb. 1 at 2 p.m. for the Clermont Harbor Youth Corps.

Special guests included Burt Courge, Hancock County supervisor and Ronnie Peterson, sheriff of Hancock County.

The meeting, however, was a disappointment to the coordinators due to lack of attendance.

The topics discussed were important to the community and very informative.

The Youth Corps is doing such a great job; they're so enthusiastic and work so diligently, I can't believe the parents failed to stop by and learn the inner works of this group.

Coordinating the activities, arranging their lunches, keeping financial accounts, counting the bags, arranging for pickups, trips to the county barn and notifying these youths, takes time and effort.

The coordinators were hoping to share some of this with the other parents.

These kids have proven themselves, and one only has to ride around Clermont Harbor to see the success of this Youth Corps.

Increased sales tax unjust to people on fixed income

Editor
Sea Coast Echo

As everyone knows, the property tax millage in Bay St. Louis was in one sudden stroke raised 54 percent. This has placed an intolerable burden on all of us. At first impression, it appears that businesses were singled out, but the millage increase has largely obliterated the intended reduction in homeowners' taxes that was to occur statewide by dropping the assessed valuation to 10 percent of appraisal.

In an effort to alleviate the situation, there is a move under way to reduce the sales tax to 7 percent. The sales tax is, however, a particularly counterproductive tax. It will not affect those who go out of our community to shop, but it will penalize those from other areas of the coast who come here to buy. It is a particularly cruel and unjust tax to those of limited income who must buy their food and clothing locally.

Our burgeoning rate of taxation threatens everyone of us who live and work here. It encourages people to leave the area.

What is needed is to encourage efficiencies on the city and county level, and to trim expenditures to the bare necessities.

Precipitous increases in rates of taxation should not be imposed by a few people. It is all of us who are being asked to pay, and all of us should have a say. Let us not be coerced into offering yet another source of revenue to burden our already overtaxed population, especially not one so short-sighted as a sales tax increase.

A message to Big Brother

Dear Editor,
Please relay this message to Big Brother for me.

Dear Big Brother,
I am disappointed in you. Why, you are nothing but a rumor-monger. And to think that I've spent 22 years in the U.S. Navy defending you. Now you've turned on me like a rabid dog; and all because someone whispered something about me in your ear. On top of everything else you would not believe me when I told you that the rumor was not true.

The constitution that I have been defending reads in part:
...man is endowed with certain inalienable rights - among them are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness...

Today (Jan. 29), on or about 1:30 p.m., you attempted to violate all of these sacred rights; rights which over the past 200 years millions of Americans have lost their lives defending; but no, today you decide to suspend them.

In case you forgot, let me remind you of what happened.

I was given a woodburning, parlor stove. Since I don't have room for it in my trailer I installed it outside, in the middle of the yard. Most of my neighbors have been here at one time or another; while the children play the adults will sit around the stove enjoying the heat and whatever they wish to drink. Sometimes we will play musical instruments, other times we will spin yarns about the "big one that got away." Sometimes my wife will cook outside, with the results being that that stove has helped make my yard a corner of heaven.

Two women came along from the Welfare Department saying that someone had complained that I don't have heat in my house because I have been seen sitting by a woodburning stove.

She took note of it and then said that she wanted to come into my house. I told her that I was not on welfare. She said that she still had to check for heaters. I told her that I was not allowing the state into my house. As she was leaving I asked what the outcome of this would be. She said he was coming back with a deputy. I told her that the deputy could not come into my house, that it would take a court action.

Well Big Brother, I think you had better reread the constitution.

Sincerely,
Antonio Ramirez

It was a summer of trial for my younger son, some years ago, when, freshly graduated from Tulane, he was spending the summer at our home on the Coast before starting the work of his choice.

Since we were still a two-city (New Orleans and the Pass) and a two-home family, Jack was often on his own at dinnertime, and the dinner invitations were many in our neighborhood.

Especially from one of our closest friends, Georgia-born and reared, who kept insisting that Jack come over for chicken fricassée, that favorite of Southern cooks.

The only trouble was that Jack, born and bred in New Orleans, of Irish-descended parents who followed Creole cookery ways, was used to the rich, dark brown, often wine-scented fricassée of New Orleans; and his dearly loved "Deak" insisted on serving him her Georgia-style fricassée, which to him was "milky gravy all over the chicken."

Dark sauce or gravy, or milk-gravy for the fricassée is almost as hotly a debated question in the Southland as is the proper way to cook Southern fried chicken - and friendships, as you know, have been weakened or lost over that!

I had always taken it for granted that Chicken Fricassée was an old-time Southern dish; in fact, for a long time in my younger days I believed our family cook had dreamed it up in an effort to make more tasty an old hen or so.

But, quite by accident, I learned that what I considered the South's own Chicken Fricassée was in truth one of the oldest recorded recipes in existence - "fricassée" is mentioned in almost every cookbook from the 16th and 17th centuries!

Books of that time contained a number of terms not much in use today - and a "quelquechose" - a "something" - was a "fricassée."

And, as is the case with so many words of French origin, something was lost in the translation, and the words turned into something quite different - and the fricassée became the "kickshaw" which means a sort of fancy tidbit! So much for languages and such!

At any rate, a fricassée just means the browning of meat or chicken in just a little fat or oil, then cooking it ever so slowly, covered, of course, in a heavy pot, in its own juices or in other liquid of your choice, such as wine, broth or vegetable juice - and, oh, what it does for a not-so-tender cut of meat or an old hen!

It's economical, too, whether you choose milky or dark sauce... So, here's:

KATY'S CHICKEN FRICASSÉE

1 stewing chicken or fryer, cut in pieces, butter or oil for browning, wine as desired, black pepper, cayenne, salt, 4 cups stock or water, and chopped parsley, onion, to your taste.

Salt and pepper the chicken and roll it in flour, then brown it in the oil or butter or combination of the two. Remove the chicken, add the seasonings to the pot, then the stock or water, along with a cup of white wine, if desired.

Return the chicken to the pot, and simmer, covered, until the chicken is tender - from one hour or two and more depending on tenderness. Just before serving, add chopped parsley and chipped green onions. Serve over rice. (Four to six servings.)

If you're a milky gravy fan, add a cup or so of milk or cream when the chicken is tender, along with butter, if needed, and stir around to make your creamy sauce.

The chamber hosts the Arts, Crafts & Antiques Festival semi-annually in the Spring and in the Fall. This year's Spring Festival will highlight artists, craftsmen, potters, antiques, and potted plants in Louisiana and Mississippi.

The American Legion Home offers many advantages. The entire show will be held in-doors in air conditioned comfort. The weather will not be a threatening factor.

The Legion Home has wide double doors and ground-level loading. There will also be plenty of parking available with police directing the traffic flow.

This will make traffic and parking much safer. Also, evening security for the exhibitors will be much greater because the American Legion Home can be locked at night.

During the two days of the show, free drawings for prizes will be held.

Income tax help available for retired

Free assistance in completing tax returns is now available to the retired and the elderly through TCE TAX-AIDE (Tax Counseling for the Elderly), a program of the American Association of Retired Persons.

AARP Tax Counseling for the Elderly is a program coordinated by the Internal Revenue Service to provide free tax information and assistance to persons age 60 and over.

Volunteers are specially trained by IRS to help older American with their special concerns, such as tax credit for the elderly, the double personal exemptions, the special treatment of the gain on the sale of a home for age 55 and older, the proper method of reporting pension income and paying tax on it when necessary and other subjects of special interest and concern.

These volunteers will also fill out their tax returns. TCE is provided in the neighborhood areas, generally at public libraries, which makes getting needed help easier and more convenient.

In 1985 TCE assisted older persons in filling out one and one-half million federal and state returns. Twenty-three thousand volunteers worked in the program nationally.

Beginning in February trained AARP volunteer counselors will be available at the following locations: The Pass Christian Public Library, 111 Hiern Avenue from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. each Tuesday and the Bay St. Louis City-County Library, 312 Hwy 90, from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. each Wednesday.

BATTLE REENACTMENT

"Mississippi Roads" has a Civil War theme this Tuesday, Feb. 10, when a half-hour program featuring several segments revolving around the annual reenactment of the Battle of Champion Hill near Edwards will be rebroadcast. The program can be seen at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, Feb. 10, on Mississippi ETV.

In the first segment, reenactment coordinator Herb Phillips of Edwards and participant Bill Eiff of Vicksburg give an overview of the annual event—this year being the seventh one—and explain their purpose is to "bring history to life."

The nature break this week is appropriately at Friendship Cemetery in Columbus where many Civil War soldiers are buried.

Next, the crafts segment features Bob Heath of Ridgeland who is a civil engineer by profession and who also demonstrates his blacksmithing crafts for the Champion Hill soldiers.

The music segment this week features three different musical performances: Richard McGinnis of Edwards singing "The Culture of the Alps"; Elder Roosevelt Thomas of Edwards, pastor of the Church of Jesus Christ Holiness, and members of his church performing an old-time spiritual; and Dr. David Conwill of Ridgeland, at the Champion Hill reenactment site singing a number adopted by both Union and Confederate troops during the Civil War.

And, for the cooking segment, reenactment participant James McGraw of Clinton prepares a deer meat and vegetable stew for the "troops."

WAVELAND ACCIDENT—Several residents and businesses were without electricity in Waveland and Bay St. Louis Saturday evening due to an accident at the intersection of Old Spanish Trail and Henderson Street. The vehicle above rests in a ditch and on guide lines of a utility pole. The car was driven by Barry L. Pettis of Pascagoula and had collided with a vehicle driven by Donald Majors of Waveland. Waveland Patrolman Michael Prendergast said Pettis was traveling north on Henderson and Majors was headed west on Old Spanish Trail. Majors was treated and released from Hancock General Hospital for neck and back injuries, police said. Prendergast charged Pettis with driving under the influence and reckless driving. Waveland firefighters and Coast Electric employees were also at the scene. (Photo by Jimmy Varnell).

Mississippi ETV to celebrate Black History Month

February is Black History Month, and this year Mississippi ETV is beginning the celebration a few days early. Two Black History Month specials will air on Friday, Jan. 30, and many more follow throughout February. The programs are described below.

Clarence Fountain and the Five Blind Boys of Alabama are featured in "The Gospel at Colonus" when "Great Performances" is telecast at 9 p.m., Friday, Jan. 30. The program combines the "Oedipus at Colonus" story with the music of black gospel singers.

Immediately afterward, beginning at 10:30 p.m., "Spirit to Spirit: Nikki Giovanni" offers a glimpse into the life and work of one of the country's most popular poets.

A four-part series about the life of Booker T. Washington and his contributions to history airs on "Tony Brown's Journal" on Sundays at 5 p.m., beginning Feb. 1.

Three dramas are to be shown on "Ossie & Ruby" on Mondays. "Hellfire" at 10 p.m. on Feb. 2 focuses on a TV evangelist's reaction when God, in the form of a beautiful woman, appears to him. "My Man Boovane" at 10:30 p.m. on Feb. 9 is the story of an older woman who is chastised by her children when she delights in the company of a male friend. "Two White Horses" at 10 p.m. on Feb. 16 is a ghost story told by master storyteller Jackie Torrence.

"Eyes on the Prize: America's Civil Rights Years 1954-1965" continues telling the story of the black civil rights movement at 10 p.m., Wednesdays.

"Faces," an ETV production, has planned four specials for Black History Month. The series airs at 10 p.m., Thursdays, with repeats scheduled for 5:30 p.m. Sundays. The Jan. 29 program delves into the history of education for Mississippi blacks; the Feb. 5 show introduces the work of a black artist, M.B. Mayfield of Ecru; on Feb. 12 is a mini-documentary on Mississippi black families who chose to stay on their farms rather than migrate to a city; and the Feb. 19 program offers short profiles of black men in small Mississippi towns.

"Making the Right Moves: Blacks in Corporate America" profiles successful blacks in the American business scene at 12:30 p.m., Sunday, Feb. 8.

"The Masters of Disaster," a true story about a champion chess team of inner-city black children, airs at 5 p.m., Saturday, Feb. 14.

"Ebony Heroes of Flight," which is a documentary about blacks in the Air Force in World War II, airs at 12:30 p.m., Sunday, Feb. 15.

"William Grant Still: Trailblazer from the South" looks at the career of the black composer from Woodville, Mississippi, at 10:30 p.m., Monday, Feb. 16.

"Wonderworks," "The Mighty Pawns," is a drama for children at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 19.

"American Playhouse," "Go Tell It on the Mountain," is based on the best-seller by James Baldwin. It airs at 9 p.m., Monday, Feb. 23.

Mississippi files discrimination suit against Louisiana

Attorney General Ed Pittman filed suit in federal court to stop the state of Louisiana from discriminating against Mississippi's commercial fishermen.

The suit, filed in the district court in Baton Rouge, lists several practices by Louisiana's Department of Wildlife and Fisheries which amount to unconstitutional restraints on interstate commerce and violations of the privileges and immunities clause.

Defendants listed are Louisiana Governor Edwin Edwards and J. Burton Angelle, Sr., secretary of the Department of Wildlife and Fisheries. Plaintiffs are Louis H. Ferrell of Waveland and John L. Erskine, Jr. of Bay St. Louis.

Although only two commercial fishermen are listed as parties, the outcome of the suit will affect all Mississippi shrimp and oyster fishermen who fish in Louisiana waters, Pittman said.

At the heart of the controversy are three Louisiana laws which regulate license fees for fishing and for equipment carried on the boats.

A Louisiana resident is charged $55 for a commercial fishing license while a non-resident must pay $105. In addition, unless the non-resident agrees to sell his catch in Louisiana, he is charged $405 as a wholesale/retail dealer.

The various gear used in commercial fishing is licensed separately, with fees ranging from $25 to $505 for nets, traps, dredges, seines and trawls. The gear fee for non-resident commercial fishermen is four times the gear fee for residents on each gear item licensed.

All these license and gear fees make it impossible for many Mississippi fishermen to fish in Louisiana waters, while Alabama fishermen are allowed through an interstate compact to fish at the same rate as Louisiana fishermen, Pittman said.

Mississippi has tried unsuccessfully to reach an agreement with Louisiana and is now asking, as a part of the suit, that the federal court mandate such a compact.

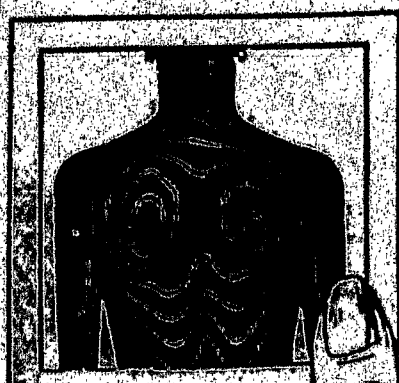

Another practice which the suit seeks to stop is the necessity of a daily "permit" for commercial fishermen who intend to carry their catch of shrimp or fish caught in Louisiana waters to any point in Mississippi.

The permit is issued at only one place, Grand Pass, accessible only by boat and two to four hours away from the usual fishing waters.

The permit office is open only from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m., and the daily permit must be picked up each morning and returned each afternoon, leaving only the few midday hours for fishing.

Underreported income on 1984 tax returns

The Internal Revenue Service is about to begin sending notices to an estimated 3.2 million taxpayers who may have underreported income on 1984 individual income tax returns. The underreporting was detected during matching of the returns with information returns supplied by banks and other payers.

This year, for the first time, all taxpayers who fail to report interest, dividends or patronage dividends—about 1.6 million taxpayers—will get notices that automatically include a negligence penalty.

Under the Interest and Dividend Tax Compliance Act of 1983, all tax year 1984 proposed adjustment notices will include a negligence penalty if interest, dividends or patronage dividends are not fully reported.

"The penalty is five percent of the additional tax on the underreported income from interest, dividends or patronage dividends, plus 50 percent of the interest on the additional tax," said Tully Miller, Jackson District director, IRS.

In the absence of clear and convincing evidence to the contrary, failure to report interest and dividend income shall be treated as due to negligence. "The determination of what constitutes acceptable evidence will be made on a case-by-case basis," Miller explained.

"For example, the taxpayer would have to establish evidence that:

—the information return supplied by the payer is incorrect,
—the payer was unable to contact the taxpayer because of a change of address,

—or the person preparing the income tax return did not have the information document due to death or illness of the taxpayer or destruction of the taxpayer's residence and records by fire or other casualty."

In cases such as these the taxpayer would have to provide a written statement of the facts, together with any supporting documents, and request that the penalty be waived.

Computer matching of information documents against tax returns has been a major tool in the IRS effort to encourage taxpayers to file and report correctly for the past decade. In 1985, matching programs resulted in $2.5 billion in additional tax assessments and made it possible for the IRS to identify over three million potential nonfilers of tax returns.

Waveland applies for sewer loan

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Waveland Board of Aldermen plans to use Farmer's Home Administration funds for a project that would provide sewerage in the city's largest unsewered area.

Consultant Ray Eaton of Ray Eaton and Associates, who was authorized Tuesday to prepare the loan application for the city, said the project will probably cost about $1 million including fees for engineering and other professional services as well as required contingency fees.

Eaton's firm will also provide professional services needed for completion of the project if the funding is approved.

The area targeted for the project is east of Nicholson Avenue and north of Sixth Street. That area contains about 250 of the 400 homes located inside the city limits but lacking sewerage.

The area was selected for the project based on its population density, Mayor John Longo Jr. said.

Eaton said the number of homes involved would probably cause the target area to take about $800,000 of the $1 million.

Longo said the cost of extending sewerage to all 400 homes would be much more than $1 million, but said the city would apply for additional funding over the next several years in order to get the job completed.

"If we don't watch our step, we're going to find ourselves in the same state as Bay St. Louis," Ward One Alderman Barbara Rappold said, referring to a lawsuit forcing Bay St. Louis to end delays on extending sewerage to annexed territory.

Ward Three Alderman Louis Smolensky, however, said not all city residents would welcome sewerage.

"I mean some of these people back here," he said, pointing to a section of Ward Three on a map Eaton had marked with dots showing unsewered homes. The area he showed had relatively few homes on small streets.

"They've told me again and again they don't want it," the alderman added.

Another part of the project calls for a new water well that will cost about $195,000 and will produce about 900 gallons per minute.

The city will have to pay the loan back over 33 years at a rate of $8,800 per month, Longo said.

Longo said that can be done without an increase in utility charges at this point.

The present rate for sewerage is a combination of charges from the city, about $10 per residence, and about $3.50 charged by the Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District.

Longo said charges for new customers will be the same as the current rate and will be enough to pay for the project.

If funds can be obtained, it is possible that the project could start some time on 1988, Eaton said.

In other business, Eaton discussed a second project his firm is handling for the city.

Eaton said lowering the slope at the intersection of Nicholson Avenue and Seaboard System Railroad tracks, with contingency funds, drainage work, widening and fill dirt would probably cost about $90,000.

Eaton offered to travel to Mobile, Ala., to talk to railroad officials about the project at no expense to the city.

The board authorized him to do so and to find out whether the railroad could supply part of the funds.

The aldermen see the intersection as dangerous because of the steepness of the grade at the crossing. Longo said tractor-trailer rigs get hung up on the crossing at least once each week.

Some rigs have to be hauled off by wreckers and the undercarriages of others are torn up when drivers try to move them, he added.

Longo said he has had experience with the problem himself because his business, Southern Frosted Foods, is located on Central Avenue.

In addition, he said the crossing causes problems for some of the trucks going to and from a nearby business, Alcan Cable.

Eaton is expected to report to the board after contacting railroad officials.

In other business, the board:

- Appointed a citizen complaint committee, consisting of Board Attorney Lucien Gex, Police Chief Donald Dorn, Bookkeeper and Zoning Board Member Harold Zimmerman and City Clerk Arcelyn Dastugue, to meet on an as-needed basis;
- Proclaimed Feb. 1-7 Catholic Schools Week; and
- Approved two variances recommended by the zoning board.

The aldermen meet again at 6:30 p.m. Feb. 18 at city hall.

Several washed-out areas have also been filled, he added.

He said the standing water problem, particularly during recent rains, had become so severe that ordinary grading was no longer helping the situation.

The road was once paved from 607 to a point past Flat Top Road, and Johnson said the work has revealed about a half-mile of hard surface that may be salvageable through patching.

"By ending the water problem, we may be able to reduce the natural deterioration of the road," Johnson said.

One of the reasons the board of supervisors has expressed interest in obtaining help with the road from federal sources has been maintenance problems.

The road is hard to maintain because there is inadequate drainage and a large percentage of the traffic is heavy traffic, like log trucks, County Engineer Larry Seal said.

He explained much of the area surrounding the road is flat and lacks places for run-off water to go. Johnson could not provide an estimate on when the Texas Flat Road work would be completed because the project has been delayed intermittently by rainy weather.

PREDATOR CONTROL

"Farmweek" reporters present a special feature on predator control on a program to air at 7:30 p.m., Monday, Feb. 9, on Mississippi ETV. They will visit the farm of John Ruth in Marks who has found an interesting solution to predator problems. Ruth's herd of sheep became fewer in number after attacks from wild dogs and coyotes. Then Ruth bought a Great Pyrenees sheep dog, a large, heavy-coated white dog that almost resembles a sheep. He has had no more sheep killed by predators since the Great Pyrenees began guarding the sheep. The dog stays with the herd all during the day and even sleeps with the sheep at night.

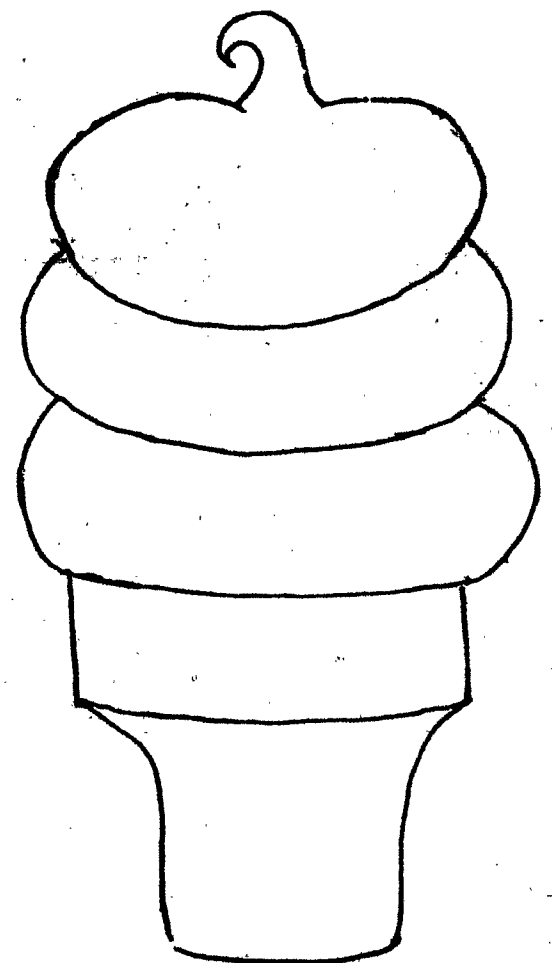

In another segment of the program, the state of the agricultural chemicals industry will be examined. "Farmweek" reporters will attend a meeting of the southeast branch of the Entomological Society of America to be held in Jackson the week before the program airs. They will talk with visiting experts about the survival of small chemical companies in the wake of dwindling farm production. The researchers will explore the question of how far these small companies may have to lean toward insect control as their major source of income.

"Farmweek" provides current prices, market analyses and many other items of interest to Mississippi farmers. The series is co-produced by Mississippi ETV and the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Consumer Update

Financial advice available to Hancock residents

By Janet K. Lukens
Coast Consumer
Management Center

If the thought of reading the total balances at the bottom of your credit card bills produces clammy hands and wobbly knees, you're not alone. In a September survey taken by a money magazine poll of major credit card holders, 51 percent said they had as much debt as they could handle and 11 percent had "too much."

The first step to a more comfortable credit situation is to face your debt. It won't just "go away" and it won't get any better unless you do something fast. Start facing your bills by totaling monthly payments and balances due. Knowing where you stand will help you to make the best decisions concerning credit and spending.

The second step is to stop using the charge card. If necessary, tear up the cards. Many people simply find spending too easy with credit cards.

The third step should be developing a budget that puts as much as possible toward credit payments. Many consumers are lulled into a false sense of security by faithfully paying the minimum bill each month. The minimum may be as little as 3 to 5 percent of the total owed. With interest rates of 18 to 21 percent, up to half of your payment could just be going toward monthly interest fees. At that rate, it may take two years to pay off balances.

The Federal Trade Commission suggests that if you cannot pay your bills, whatever your situation, contact your creditors at once. Try to work out a modified payment plan with your creditors that reduces your payments to a more manageable level.

Consider seeking professional financial advice if:

1. You are overspending your budget each month.
2. You are spending more per month than your monthly income.
3. You are falling behind on installment debt payments.
4. You are not able to save 10 percent of your take home pay.
5. You have money to invest in addition to your emergency-fund money.
6. You have received a substantial amount of money from insurance, inheritance, sale of property, tax return, etc.
7. You owe a personal debt and cannot repay on time.

Mississippi State University provides professional financial advice free of charge to Mississippi Coast residents.

This service is offered through the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service's Consumer Management Center in Biloxi.

Hancock County residents may call for an individual appointment at 385-4710, Jackson County residents at 762-3047 and Hancock County residents at 457-5456.

Area legal secretaries group to sponsor legal procedures course

Harrison-Hancock LSA will sponsor the National Association of Legal Secretaries (NALS) Official Course (Advanced), which is a comprehensive study course regarding legal procedures. February is upon us and so is Arbor Day, which was originated in Mississippi in 1926, although observed as far back as 1872 in other states. In commemoration of the 200th anniversary of the U.S. Constitution, William A. Allain, governor of our state, has proclaimed the week of Feb. 13-19, 1987 as tree planting week; and the Forestry Commission urges us to honor America and its 200 year old Constitution by planting a tree during tree planting week.

Locally, the Bay St. Louis-Waveland Garden Club will plant trees at the new jail house and police headquarters. The Forest and Conservation Service will plant trees at several schools in the area. Every year the Forest Service sends seedlings to citizens interested in planting them. Distribution this year will be from 8 a.m. to 12 noon, Wednesday, Feb. 11 at the Hancock County office (behind the Hancock Hospital). These seedlings will be bald cypress, green ash, yellow poplar, sycamore and cherry-

TREES

By Joyce Kilmer
I think that I shall never see
A poem lovely as a tree.
A tree whose hungry mouth is prest
Against the earth's sweet flowing breast;

A tree that looks at God all day
And lifts her leafy arms to pray;
A tree that may in summer wear
A nest of robins in her hair;
Upon whose bosom snow has lain;
Who intimately lives with rain.
Poems are made by fools like me,
But only God can make a tree.

Local players selected to play in All-Star football game

BRETT FAVRE

Brett Favre of Hancock North Central High School and Greg Necaise of Bay Senior High School will play in the 38th Mississippi High School All-Star Football Game Aug. 1 at Mississippi Memorial Stadium.

Bill Reeves, president of the sponsoring Jackson Touchdown Club, said the two All-Star rosters include the top 66 high school football players in the state.

Veteran Moss Point Coach Billy Miller will direct the South Stars. Miller, in his 24th season on the sidelines, posted a 9-3 mark in 1986 to raise his career mark to 135-62-4.

Miller's assistants are: Jud Garmann of Class A state champion Enterprise, Neil Hitchcock of Class

AAA runner-up Mendenhall and Hilton Baucum of Leakeville.

Another veteran coach, Jim Drewry of Kossuth, will bring 29 years of experience, a 199-75-5 career record and an 4-1 1986 mark into the game as head coach of the North.

Joining Drewry on the Yankee staff are Jackson Metro Coach of The Year Walter Griffin of Lanier, Mike Hatcher of Class A runner-up Noxapater and Robert Morgan of perennial power Warren Central.

Tickets for this year's game are $5 each and can be ordered from Mrs. Delores Orr, P.O. Box 393, Brandon, MS 39042.

Tiger soccer season to end Friday at home

The Bay High School Tiger soccer team will finish its season with a home game Friday and has added a tie to its record with a 4-4 game Tuesday against Our Lady of Victories in Pascagoula.

The Tigers scored two goals in the last eight minutes of play to achieve the tie.

Joel Duncan, with the leading number of assists on the team, assisted Scott Krankey and Jonathan Clark on each of their goals.

Shane Kowalski scored the other two points on penalty shots. Doug Rhodes and Sean Foreman were each credited with saving a goal.

The junior varsity played OLV to a 0-0 tie, although the Tigers dominated the match.

Last week, the Tigers lost both their matches, including their first shut-out of the season, when Mercy

Cross defeated the varsity 3-0 and tied the junior varsity 2-2 Thursday.

On Tuesday, the Tigers lost at home to Long Beach, 5-3.

John Favre scored one goal on an assist from Kowalski.

Kowalski scored the other two goals, one with an assist from Scott Demboski and one on a penalty kick.

The junior varsity lost 2-0.

The Tigers' last game of the season will be Friday night at Tiger Stadium, where Bay High will face the undefeated Gulfport Admirals. Senior Captains Clark, Demboski and Eddie Bourgeois invite the public to 5:30 p.m. junior varsity and 7 p.m. varsity matches.

The Tiger Soccer Booster Club will be giving away a soccer ball at halftime of the varsity match.

Any fan may register for the ball, donated by Bay Area Youth Soccer, when they enter the gate.

No admission is charged.

Student athletes excel

Twenty-eight Golden Eagle student athletes earned outstanding academic honors during the recently completed fall semester at the University of Southern Mississippi, including three named to the President's list. Twenty-five others earned Dean's List status.

The President's List required a perfect 4.0 grade point average and a minimum 12 hour academic load while Dean's List scholars must earn a 3.25 (or above) grade point average with a minimum 12 hour academic load.

Athletes earning President's List honors include Mark Lucas and Kenneth McCarty from the track team and Keenan Wayne Carver from the swim team.

Dean's List status went to Charles Brown, Michael Callahan, James Stephen Ellis, James Feltenbacher, Christian McCarty, Mark McLeod and Joel Singleton all of the Golden Eagle football team; Jay Ladner from men's basketball; Kimberly Owens from women's softball; Mike Myrick of the golf team; Matthew Carpenter of men's track and Laura Alexander, Johan Ericsson, Russell Willis and Kelly Wilson from the tennis program.

Also included are Michelle Gayle Champion and Tonic Ann Coumanis of women's volleyball; Sean Michael Burke, James Lagana, John Nelson, Francisca Rodriguez and Bradford von Reegen from the swim program; and Thomas Duncan, Kevin Dunn and Charles Shive from baseball.

"We're committed to the student-athlete concept," said USM athletic director Bill McLellan. "One of our goals is that every student-athlete have the opportunity to secure a quality education."

"We're very proud of the accomplishment of this group and hope that all our athletes will strive to meet or exceed the standards set by this outstanding group."

KEEPING FIT

"How can I be gaining weight? I've been so busy lately — shopping, cooking, working nights, cleaning houses, getting ready for the holidays, etc." I have heard this from a number of people bewildered by steadily increasing weight gains (UWG's) during busy times of the year. And, yes, Virginia, there is a reason for the weight gain.

Santa isn't on the heavy side for nothing. There is something about the holidays that makes people gain weight, and it's not just because they are eating lots of sweets. While you may think you should be not be gaining weight because you're so busy, it's probably because you're so busy that you're gaining weight.

With the bustle and bustle of the holidays, and all the errands that have to be done, not to mention the extra work at the office to get everything done early, we tend skip meals, eat late at night, or eat the wrong things.

I was in the mall recently, and feeling a case of the hunger pangs, went in search of something to eat. I discovered that the whole bottom floor had been devoted to food, fast food that is. And as I descended the escalator, I was presented with an array of 30 different fast food places to choose from — Chinese fast food, Indian fast food, Mexican fast food, ice cream parlors, the good old American hamburger stands, and on and on. Since I was short on time, I grabbed a quick hamburger and a cola. (Not very smart, and yet we all do it.)

Another cause of UWG's is lack of exercise. Oh sure, you're constantly moving, but you're probably not getting your heart pumping for any length of time, and who has 45 minutes to spare for working out now?

Take the time to eat right — three times a day — and get up 45 minutes earlier to get in that all important workout time. You'll feel better and you won't get the UWG's.

Don't drink and drive program opened at HNC

Hancock North Central High School Student Council will take part in the second annual Reader's Digest national competition that seeks the best student-implemented programs for combatting drinking and driving.

Schools will be competing for $500,000 in 4-year scholarships. These 115 awards range from $20,000 to $4,000 and will come from a Reader's Digest Foundation grant to the National Association of Secondary School Principals (NASSP).

The Reader's Digest $500,000 Don't Drive and Drink College Scholarship Challenge was held for the first time last year and drew more than 700 entries from high schools around the nation.

Hancock North Central has accepted the challenge and plans a Mardi Gras Parade and Dance. The purpose of our project is to demonstrate to students and parents that you can have fun without drinking during the Mardi Gras and other holidays.

Hancock North Central will submit a report on what it has accomplished to the NASSP and will complete other aspects of its program by April 10.

Entries will be judged later that month by a panel representing leading national organizations. In June, the winning schools will receive the following 4-year college scholarships: One for $20,000, 4 for $10,000 and 110 for $4,000.

William Carey College receives grant

A Sears-Roebuck Foundation spokesman has announced the presentation of a $1,500 grant to William Carey College.

This amount is part of $13,200 in unrestricted grants being distributed to 10 privately-supported colleges and universities in Mississippi.

Nationwide the Sears-Roebuck Foundation is donating $1,750,000 for the 1986-87 academic year to 956 accredited private two-year and four-year institutions. Funds may be used as the schools deem necessary.

In addition to the grant program, the foundation each year conducts a variety of other programs in elementary, secondary and higher education. During 1986 the foundation had expenditures of more than $3,000,000 for its education activities.

Mississippi Junior Round-Up to begin Sunday

The Mississippi Junior Round-up is scheduled Sunday, Feb. 8 through Thursday, Feb. 12 as a part of the 1987 Dixie National Livestock Show at the Coliseum/Fairgrounds Complex in Jackson.

"One of the most outstanding features of the Dixie National each year is the Junior Round-up," said Agriculture Commissioner Jim Buck Rose, chairman of the State Fair Commission which sponsors the Dixie National and Agriculture Commissioner.

Billy Orr, director of the Coliseum/Fairgrounds, said, "The Junior Round-up is a showcase not only for Mississippi's young athletes but for their fine livestock, too."

Each year, the Junior Round-up brings top participants and excellent animals to the Dixie National. It's among our most popular events," said Tommy Strickland, livestock manager, Fairgrounds.

Competition begins at 9:30 a.m. Monday, Feb. 9, with the 4-H Livestock Judging Contest in the Coliseum. The 4-H Dairy Judging Contest follows at noon in the Coliseum.

The judging continues at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday, Feb. 10 with the Market Lamb Show in the Beef Arena. Also scheduled at 8:30 a.m. is the Dairy Show in the Coliseum. A Steer Show at 4:30 p.m. in the Coliseum ends the day's events.

Rounding out the judging is a Market Swine Show at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday, Feb. 11 in the Swine Arena; a Commercial Heifer Show at 8:30 a.m. in the Coliseum and a Best Breeding Show, also scheduled in the Coliseum at 9 a.m.

Junior Champions will be sold at noon Thursday, Feb. 12 in the Dixie Sales Arena on the fairgrounds marking the end of the round-up.

The 22nd annual Dixie National Livestock show is scheduled from Monday, Feb. 2 through Sunday, Feb. 22.

A highlight of the 1987 Dixie National is the Dixie National Rodeo with eight performances Feb. 12 through the 18 in the Coliseum.

Entertainers Dan Seale, "The Girls Next Door," and Randy Travis will sing during intermission of the various performances.

Seale, formerly part of the pop duo "England Dan and John Ford Coley," will perform Thursday, Feb. 12 and Friday, Feb. 13. The award-winning singer's solo songs include "After You," and "God Must Be A Cowboy." He enjoyed a hit duet with Marie Osmond, "Meet Me In Montana."

"The Girls Next Door," are composed of Doris King, Tammy Stephens, Diane Williams and Cindy Nixon. Their material goes from traditional to contemporary country. In just a short time, they've had several hits including "Love Will Get You Through Times Of No Money," and "Slow Boat to China."

Performances by "The Girls Next Door" are Saturday, Feb. 14 and Sunday, Feb. 15.

Travis, who began singing in country bars at 14, is one of country music's new stars. During his brief career, he's enjoyed several hits including "On The Other Hand." He will entertain Monday, Feb. 16, Tuesday, Feb. 17 and Wednesday, Feb. 18.

Rodeo performances are at 7:30 p.m. nightly with the exception of a 2 p.m. matinee Saturday, Feb. 14 and Sunday, Feb. 15. A 7:30 p.m. performance is also scheduled for Saturday night while the matinee is the only performance on Sunday.

All seats for the Rodeo are reserved. Tickets are $8, $7 and $6.

Mail orders are currently being filled with the best seats available at the time the order is received.

Send check or money order for tickets to: Dixie National Rodeo, Post Office Box 822, Jackson, MS 39205 and include $2 for handling.

World champion cowboys will compete for thousands of dollars in prize money during the rodeo. Cowgirls will also vie for prize money in barrel racing.

Bob Tallman, hailed as the "Great American Cowboy" will again be the announcer for this year's rodeo which is produced by Harper and Morgan Rodeo Company of Lauderdale, Miss.

Rodeo events include bull riding, saddle bronc riding and steer wrestling.

Livestock competitions, swine judging and horse shows will also highlight the 1987 Dixie National Livestock Show.

The Power of Plain Talk

At your member-owned Electric Power Association, we work for you, not for a group of stockholders. Our prime responsibility is to keep your power coming, reliable and affordably. So, when you've got a question for us, we've got an answer for you — clear, straightforward, and to the point, without runarounds or doubletalk. If you should ever have a problem with our service or a question about your bill, let us hear from you right away. Give us a call and we'll give you the facts — plain and simple.

SCHOLARS BOWL—Coast Episcopal High School Scholars Bowl Team members for 1987 are Sophomore Malise Marchal of Pass Christian; Senior Margaret Mardock of Gulfport; Junior Teri Carter and Oddy Hargrave of Gulfport; and team alternates are Sophomore Sean Bell and Freshman Jessica Barrett, both of Pass Christian. Not pictured is Junior Sharon Orta of Waveland. The Scholars Bowl team competes in area competitions held every two weeks at Jeff Davis Junior College January through April. In competition on Monday, Jan. 12 CEHS finished second out of 11 teams. Long Beach High School was first place winner. The Scholar's Bowl team also competes in the Harrison County Library System's "Brain Bowl" and participated in the WYES Channel 12 Varsity Quiz Bowl competition in New Orleans. The CEHS team is sponsored by math and science teacher Mrs. Janet Young and English teacher Mrs. Madelyn Taylor.

Spring registration at William Carey set Feb. 19

Spring registration at William Carey College on the Coast in Gulfport will be held from 1-6:30 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 19, in the Student Center.

Students may call or visit prior to registration for counseling or advisement. Any students who cannot attend registration should contact the college before Feb. 19 to reserve their place. Classes will begin Monday, Feb. 23.

Courses are offered in day and night schedules to meet the needs of full-time and part-time students.

Undergraduate programs are available from the college of arts and sciences, and the schools of business, education, music, and nursing. Graduate programs are also provided in business, counseling psychology, education, and music. Most classes are small to provide much personal attention for students.

Student housing is now available at Carey on the Coast with apartments for single or married students. Students may also take advantage of the beach-front swimming pool and the fishing/sun bathing pier; or try out for the inter-collegiate soccer team. Construction on a conference center will also begin within several weeks.

For more information, call (601) 865-1500; or visit the campus on 01856 Beach Drive in Gulfport.

Stanislaus, OLA students in tournament

Nine students from Our Lady Academy and nine students from St. Stanislaus will be participating in the 13th Annual Mississippi Science and Mathematics Tournament at Mississippi College on Feb. 5 and 6.

OLA students include Julie Schaefer, Kelly Kolobzie, Dee Dee Strong, Georgiana Dagnall, Nicole Montagnet, Sabrina Kormanac, Page Murphy, Cynthia Martinovich and Jessica Deffen.

St. Stanislaus participants include Jose Lau, David Bourgeois, Stephen Montagnet, Joel Thames, Marco Lau, Steve Bouie, Mike Vegas, David Bast and Albert Bolian.

The tournament, sponsored by the Mississippi College Departments of Science and Mathematics, recognizes students and their high schools for outstanding academic achievement in the two fields of study. This year's competition will include over 1,400 students representing 170 different high schools in two days of intense competition.

Herrington chosen chair of CUPA

University of Southern Mississippi Director of Personnel Services Bob Herrington Jr. has assumed the chairmanship of the Southern Region of College and University Personnel Administrators (CUPA).

Herrington will direct the activities of the Southern Region that includes 300 institutional members in West Virginia, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Kentucky, Tennessee, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and Florida.

He will serve as director through 1987 and will be responsible for coordinating the regional convention next April in Richmond, Va. During the year, he also will attend national board meetings and conventions, and will lead an immigration workshop during the national meeting in San Diego, Calif., later this month.

Herrington, at USM since 1976, has served on the CUPA board of directors and as chair-elect before being named to the chairmanship of the national organization that boasts some 1,700 institutional members nationwide. The organization is made up of personnel directors in higher education.

LETTER FROM WASHINGTON—Bay Junior High Principal W.J. Camerona checks a letter and information Rambo Gallegos received from Mrs. Nancy Reagan in reference to 'National Federation of Parents for Drug-Free Youth'. Gallegos, an eighth-grade student wrote to Mrs. Reagan after viewing a television program on students and drugs and received an immediate response from the president's wife. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Gallegos of Bay St. Louis. Mrs. Reagan's letter tells how the first lady has spoken to young people across the country about the terrible effects drugs have on young people's lives, adding, 'they wished they had never gotten involved with drugs'. THE NEW DELCHAMPS MAKES A DIFFERENCE YOU CAN SEE.

IN YOUR POCKETBOOK.

The New Delchamps has pricing that's absolutely lower on every item, every day. It means we're doing business in a whole new way. A more honest way.

It's called Everyday Minimum Pricing, and it means Delchamps customers have already discovered they have the minimum total food bill every week.

EVERYDAY MINIMUM PRICING ABSOLUTELY LOWER PRICING!

At the New Delchamps we don't have weekly specials. We don't have double coupons, games or gimmicks—they just keep your total food bill high. We DO have pricing that's absolutely lower on every item, every day. So you get the minimum total food bill. Every week.
